The Old Folks' Meeting at Columbus.

BY LEO.

In our last week's article about the revival meeting at Columbus we spoke of Dr. Chapman as a noted evangelist, but the printer made us say a Scotch evangelist. It was not a bad slip on the part of the printer for the Scotch are a noted people in many ways. However, Dr. Chapman is not Scotch, but an American, born in Indiana.

The revival meetings are still held. There is a great awakening at the capital city of our state. Thousands of people attend the religious meetings every day. Things are moving on grandly. It is a pity the Ohio legislators did not attend every night, for they too need an awakening. Could they do better than put themselves in the way of spiritual quickening? We are sure that it would facilitate right law-making.

Last week was held a most remarkable religious gathering—old folks' meeting. Dr. Chapman invited the aged people in and about Columbus to gather in a special meeting. Fifteen hundred venerable Christian people of both sexes accepted the invitation. It was a gathering of the veterans of Christianity at Columbus. Some of the veterans had lived over ninety years. One aged woman, a venerable mother in Israel, sang a solo at the meeting. They sang some of the old hymns and tunes in vogue seventy years ago, which they had sung in their youthful days but are seldom heard in these days. It was certainly a most impressive religious meeting. Fifteen hundred Christian veterans on the verge of eternity singing the songs of their childhood days was a scene of rare occurrence, as grand as it was rare.

Aged people may not be as easily moved as young children, but they enjoy the ministry of an evangelist as much as younger people, especially if a resort is made to the old ways. That renews their youth.

The coming together of so many veteran Christians must have been impressive. It afforded an opportunity for the young to witness the power of religion down to old age. The veterans had not forgotten nor forsaken their religion.

Aged people are often deprived of the usual sanctuary services by reason of infirmities incident to old age. This is no proof that their interest in religion has waned. They are less dependent on religious meetings than younger people because they have a vast store of religious experience to draw upon.

It is a psychological fact of great importance that what we learn in youth comes up quite fresh in our old age, becoming a source of enjoyment the second time. In this way old folks renew their youth. For this reason the fifteen hundred aged people at the Chapman-Alexander meeting sang with a zest the songs and tunes of their youth.

The church would do well to take note of this fact and avoid the putting away of the good old hymns too rapidly. The songs of the sanctuary, if properly used, linger in the mind down to old age. If there is too much novelty in church singing the old folks fail to catch on. There should never be held a religious service in which some one or two of the old hymns are not sung. It is well to learn new songs, but to many Christians the old is better.

In a few days the evangelists will be in Greenville. We look for good results. We certainly need a new quickening. According to our faith it shall be to us.

The Lash of a Fiend would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "nothing helped me till I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hay fever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. If you are weak or run-down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Obituary.

Sophia Burkett, daughter of Joseph and Susan Burkett, was born in Darke Co., Ohio, Sept. 28, 1843, and died at her late home in Fort Jefferson, O., Feb. 25, 1910, aged 66 years, 4 months and 27 days.

She was united in marriage to J. W. Viets May 8, 1862. To this union was born seven children—three girls and four boys—three of whom preceded her to the other world. She united with the M. E. church at Fort Jefferson in 1877, but because of her ill health was not able to attend services very often. She is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters—Orville Viets, Schuyler Viets, Mrs. T. F. Crawford, and Helen Viets—one brother, 18 grandchildren and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn their loss. This sister was an obedient wife and faithful mother, what more glorious tribute could be given.

Today we lay our mother to rest And fold her cold hands upon her breast. In silence she suffered, in patience she bore, Until God called her home to suffer no more.

Death has robbed us of our loved one, Whom we loved and cherished dear, It was mother, yes, dear mother, Can we help but drop a tear?

Oh, we miss her coming footsteps, We miss her everywhere, Home is not what it used to be, Since our dear mother is not there.

O mother, thou art missed by many Needy ones who turned to thee, For thy heart was always willing And thy hand to give was free.

How we miss you, dearest mother, As we gaze upon your vacant place, Around our home sad and lonely Absent is your loving face.

CARPET AND RUG TREATMENT.

How They Can Be Cleaned and Made to Last Longer.

To spoil a carpet sweep it with a stiff, half worn broom, but to save a carpet dip your broom in clean, hot suds once a week, then shake it out and hang it up to dry.

Rugs should be beaten on the wrong side, then swept on the right side. Spots may be removed by the use of ox gall or ammonia and water, using a sponge or flannel. Slightly moistened bran is equally as good as salt in brightening rugs and carpets.

Vinegar will remove blue spots. Soot from an open chimney or the careless handling of stoves can be removed by covering thickly with salt, and this afterward can be brushed up quickly without injury; to the carpets. Spirits of ammonia diluted with water, if applied with sponge or flannel to discolored spots, will often restore the color.

Remove ink stains with milk, and after soaking up all that seems possible either sprinkle thickly with salt or wash with a pure white soap, a clean brush and warm water.

For grease spots use powdered magnesia, fuller's earth or buckwheat flour. Sprinkle on spots and let it lie until grease is absorbed. Renew the flour or other absorbent material as often as necessary.

When carpet moths are discovered, after removing all artificial lights in the room saturate the cracks in the floor with kerosene. Wash upper edge of the carpet with a solution containing sixty parts of poison to one part of alcohol. Be extremely careful about using this if there are children about.

For Ingrain or three ply carpets wring a cloth out of hot water and lay it over the edges or binding and iron with an iron as hot as can be without scorching. This destroys the moth as well as the eggs. Wilton and the heavier carpets must be steamed on the underside.

A good solution to use in wiping up the floor before putting down the rugs or carpets is as follows: A quarter of a pound of red pepper steeped in a gallon of water, to which are added two drams of strychnia powder.

TREATING RHEUMATISM.

How to Secure Relief from a Very Painful Ailment.

To cure rheumatism it is necessary to rid the system of the excess of uric acid, and to do this a proper diet is even more important than the use of drugs, though in very severe cases the latter are not to be despised in conjunction with the dieting that is absolutely essential.

The Massachusetts General hospital of Boston allows the following diet for its rheumatic patients: Graham or brown bread, white bread (limited to one-half slice daily), corn, granum, rice, milk, eggs, flour, puddings, crackers, beans, peas, all kinds of vegetables except potatoes, tomatoes and asparagus, rhubarb, fresh fish, butter, cheese, buttermilk, cream, alkaline waters and toast. Avoid red meats, starch or potatoes, white bread and sugars.

The sensible use of water, both internally and externally, plays a large part in the prevention or cure of rheumatism. One or two glasses, either hot or cold, taken before breakfast every morning is excellent to start the organs of digestion for the day, and at least one glass should be taken between meals. Often the plain water will be enough to move a slightly constipated person, but if not a mild laxative water may be taken instead. It is very essential to keep the bowels open in cases of rheumatism.

Uric acid in the system is a poison, and it must not be forgotten that the poisonous waste matter is also eliminated through the skin. The pores of the skin must be kept freely open and not allowed to become clogged if we hope to obtain the best results with rheumatic cases. A hot bath at bedtime is often very helpful.—Belmont.

How to Sew Lace to a Centerpiece.

A new way to put lace on a round centerpiece is to turn the material up on the right side. Just the tiniest edge is turned, and it may be necessary to slit it occasionally to make it lie flat. The thread of the lace is drawn for a gathering and the lace put around the centerpiece on top of the turned back edge. It must be held just full enough to lie flat, but not to ruffle. After the lace is fastened on it may either be sewed firmly by machine or hand. Then outline the inner edge with a heavy cable stitch, using a twisted long thread cotton. This makes a smart finish and is much quicker than the usual buttonhole edge with lace sewed underneath.

How to Mend China.

The most successful way to mend broken china is the following formula: Powder a small quantity of lime and take the white of one egg and mix together to a paste. Apply this quickly to the china to be mended. Place the broken pieces together firmly, and they will become set and strong. It is unusual when china breaks. In the same place again after being mended with this paste.

How to Make a Turkey Feather Fan.

Get pasteboard fans, such as are used for advertising. Paint handles with black varnish paint. Cover the pasteboard with a layer of glue, on which arrange the down feathers so each row of feathers covers the stems of the last, as one circle after another narrows toward the center.

How to Cure Croup.
One teaspoonful of vaseline given internally about twice a day will give relief and effect a cure.
